SERIOUS FIRE AT STAMFORD.

Chemical Co.'s Plant Destroyed With Loss of $30,000.

Stamford, Dec. 22.—For the second time in five years the plant of the Stamford Chemical Co., the principal industry of this town, was destroyed by fire yesterday. The flames originated in the store house, where was kept a great quantity of charcoal, wood alcohol and acetate of lime, the products of the factory. The blaze spread from the store house to the main factory building and burned, unchecked, until it had burned itself out.

Harold Tudor, treasurer of the company, who was the end man of the bucket brigade, was partially overcome by charcoal fumes and was dragged from the building in an unconscious condition and with his face badly scorched.

The loss is estimated at $30,000. Although only 15 men were employed in the factory, the company gives work to 100 woodchoppers and forty teamsters.
